IMPORTANT TAX INFORMATION REGARDING YOUR JRS REFUND

The Judges Retirement and the Judges Retirement II Systems (JRS) are required to provide you with this notice under §402(f) of the Internal Revenue Code. The Internal Revenue Code provides several complex rules on the taxation of the amount that you receive as a refund of your contributions in the JRS. This notice merely summarizes these rules and is not intended as tax advice. You should promptly consult a tax advisor in deciding what course to follow with respect to your JRS refund. THE JRS CANNOT PROVIDE TAX ADVICE.

Note that Federal tax rules require the JRS to automatically deduct 20% Federal Tax Withholding from the taxable portion of your refund unless you elect to roll over the taxable portion by Direct Rollover to an Individual Retirement Arrangement (IRA) or other qualified plan.

Because of your separation from a JRS covered employment, a total refund of your contributions is an "eligible rollover distribution". Your distribution may also constitute a "lump sum distribution". Special tax rules apply to eligible rollover distributions and are described below:

Rollover

You may avoid current taxation on any portion of the taxable amount of an eligible rollover distribution by rolling over that portion into an IRA or another qualified employer retirement plan that accepts rollover contributions.

Not all distributions are eligible to be rolled over. Any distribution that is part of a series of substantially equal periodic payments made at least annually under a life annuity, over life expectancy or over a specified period of 10 or more years is ineligible to be rolled over. Also ineligible for rollover treatment is the amount of a distribution that is necessary to satisfy the minimum distribution requirements that apply after you turn age 70½.

A tax-free rollover of the taxable amount of an eligible rollover distribution is accomplished in one of two ways:

Regular Rollover

You may take an in-hand distribution and not later than 60 days after you receive the distribution, transfer the taxable portion of the distribution to an IRA or qualified plan that accepts rollover contribution;

OR

Direct Rollover

You may direct the JRS to transfer the taxable portion of the distribution to a specified IRA or a qualified plan that accepts rollovers after providing the JRS with any requested necessary information and completing and filing the required forms with the JRS.

Even if you plan to roll over the taxable portion of the eligible distribution, unless you elect a Direct Rollover, the JRS is required to withhold Federal taxes from the amount distributed at a rate of 20%.

A Direct Rollover is the only way to avoid the otherwise mandatory 20 percent withholding.

If you make a Regular Rollover, tax will be withheld even though you will not owe any taxes on the distribution. If the taxable amount of the distribution you would have received were it not for the withholding is more than the net distribution and you wish to roll over the total taxable amount you will have to make up the difference out-of-pocket. When filing your individual tax return you then can get a refund of the amount withheld to the extent you have no further tax liability.

FIVE YEAR AVERAGING

Generally, a lump sum distribution (as defined in §402(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, means a distribution of the entire amount in the plan, (account balance), within one taxable year that is made because of your death or separation from service, or after you reach age 50½. If your distribution qualifies under §403(d) of the Internal Revenue Code as a lump sum distribution and no part of your distribution is rolled over, you may be able to elect to have the distribution taxed under special five-year averaging rules rather than having the entire amount taxed as ordinary income. Use of the five-year averaging rules may reduce the amount of income tax you will be required to pay on this distribution. Five-year averaging may not be elected unless you have participated in the JRS, as the plan making the distribution, for any part of at least five years before the year of the distribution and unless you have attained age 59½ at the time of the distribution. Generally, you may elect five-year averaging only once.

If you attained age 50 before January 1, 1986, you may elect to have your lump sum distribution taxed under a special rule. Under this rule, you may elect to have the pre-1974 portion of a lump sum distribution taxed at a 20% rate; the remainder may be taxed either at ordinary income rates, under five-year averaging, or under special ten-year averaging provisions. If you elect ten-year averaging, 1986 tax rates will be used to compute the ten-year averaging provisions. Finally, you may elect to receive the special tax treatment described in this paragraph, (including five-year averaging), even if you are not age 59½. However, any ten-year averaging election made prior to January 1, 1987, and before attaining age 59½, does not count toward your election.

ADDITIONAL TAX ON EARLY DISTRIBUTIONS

As a result of changes in the law under the Federal Tax Reform Act of 1986 and conforming State of California legislation, early distributions from qualified retirement plans are now subject to an additional 10-percent Federal Penalty Tax and a 2½ % California Penalty Tax. In general, if you receive distribution from a qualified retirement plan before you reach age 59½, you must pay the additional Federal and State Penalty Tax on the taxable portion of the distribution, plus any income tax due on the distribution. There is no additional penalty tax on the portion of the distribution that is a return of you after-tax contributions.

For tax information or advice, see your tax consultant, the Internal Revenue Service, or the State Franchise Tax Board. Consult the financial institution of your choice for additional information about rollovers. Once again, the JRS does not, and cannot, provide tax advice.
